Boquillas Administrative Site Maintenance Building Construction

Need

The historic Boquillas Ranch is located inside the San Pedro Riparian National Conservation Area, southeast of Sierra Vista, Arizona. The ranch is managed by the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) Tucson Field Office as an administrative site and, seasonally, as a Wild Land Fire Station. This project will construct two comfort stations, install adequate lighting, and construct a covered equipment storage unit within the ranch.

The initial construction schedule estimates work beginning June 2010 and ending by September 2010. Access to the site will not be affected during construction. Specific areas under construction will be restricted. Service interruptions should be expected during lighting repairs and during electrical system start up and testing routines at project completion.
